WOULD ALLOW VOTES TO BE CAST BY MAIL

Speaker Champ Clark Makes Plea for Those Absent on Day of Election.

SAYS STATES MAY ACT

Law Already in Force in Kansas; Submits His Views for Consideration.

By International News Service. WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.-Speaker Champ Clark thinks it unfair that phydrummers and others whose usiness calls them away from their residences at uncertain dates should be distome to register and to vote on dates fixed by law.

The speaker received the support of the traveling men's association last spring and now he is out in support of a change in the law by the several states allowing the right of vote under affidavit by mail. A bill conferring this right to vote for congressman is now before the house committee, but the states have the power to regulate generally the right of suffrage.

Speaker's Views.

Speaker's Views.

The speaker today issued this statement on the subject:

Last fall, while campaigning in lowa. I ran into a crowd of drummers, and of course they were all discussing politics, whooping it up for Wilson, Taft and Roosevelt, Several were iamenting the fact that they would be compelled to lose their votes by reason of absence from home on election day and wanted to know why congress does not pass a law enabling drummers to vote wherever they happen to be. I explained to them that congress had no power to fix qualifications for suffrage, but that conversation set me to thinking on the subject, and the light vote cast in November caused me to thinking on more.

Resides the hundreds of thousands some more.

Bestdes the hundreds of thousands of drummers, there are other thousands of voters necessarily absent from home on business on election day—students, preachers, doctors, railroad men, etc.

Suggests Legislation.

Most assuredly it is desirable for the public weal that all good citizens should vote. In view of the facts, my suggestion is that state legislatures should pass laws enabling those necessarily absent from home on election day to vote. It could be easily arranged and safeguarded by pusciding that regulation ballots be furnished such persons to be marked signed, sworn to and returned to the proper election officers, etc.

Kansas now has such a law. While the legislatures are at it they would do well to change the election day from Tuesday to Monday, so that the drummers who spend Sunday at home would not lose both the Mondays and Tuesdays in order to vote. I most modestly submit my little reform to the consideration and judgment of state legislatures.

Director Holmes of Bureau of Mines Talks Regarding Offer of Weather Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26 .- The United States weather bureau is notifying the mine owners of the country that if they desire it will inform them when atmostikely to occur and when extraprecautions should be taken. In its circular, the weather bureau declares that the two sexes should enjoy absolute equalities of ressure conditions make explosions afteely to occur and when extraprecautions should be taken. In its circular, the weather bureau declares that when there is a marked fall in atmospheric pressure, the chances of mine explosions are greatly increased.

Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, director of the linited States bureau of mines, expressed the fear today that "the warnings themselves may add to the risks and dangers in mines where gases generate in dengerous quantities." Investigations have been going on for two years, he said, as to the influence of weather conditions, especially atmospheric pressure as indicated by the baromster, upon the amount of gas in coal mines, but the results obtained to date have not been conclusive.

"As to the value of warnings," Dr. Holmes declared, "that will depend upon the way in which they are used. If, as is hoped, they serve to make mines and mine operators more careful when warnings are issued and not less careful at other times, they may do good."

WASHINGTON. Jan. 26.—Official copies of the electoral votes for each of the forty-eight attates have now been filed with the president pro tempore of the senate. The law requires that two copies of the official electoral vote shall be sent to Washington from each state—one by mail, and one by messenger—either of these copies without the other being sufficient evidence of the result. To be counted, the vote must be received in Washington not inter than the last Monday in January. All mailed opies have been received while neason-sers from forty states have also filed additional copies.

The vote will be officially canvassed in the house of representatives on February 12, the second Wednesday of the month. The sealed envelopes from the various states have not been enamed, but there is little possibility of the result being found in any respect different from that already unofficially ammounced—Wilson 135. Appreciation of Wilson Given by Noted Woman

The picture here reproduced of Mrs. Joseph R. Wilson, the president-elect's mother, is the only one in exist-ence. It is an old daguerrectype. Be-low is a picture of the president-elect's father and a picture of Woodrow Wil-son when a young man.

Elizabeth B. Grannis Talks of Life of President-elect.

T a time when the whole nation is looking forward with more or less speculation to the incoming less speculation to the incoming Democratic administration, a few sidelights into the early life and training of the man who is to head that administration form an interesting picture. Through all the early life of Woodrow Wilson and until he occupied a chair in Princeton, the dominating influence that seemed to decide or at least affect his every move, was his father, the Rev. Joseph R. Wilson, D. D., L.L. D., professor of theology in Clarkesville university in Tennessee.

The Rev. Mr. Wilson was of the old school of southern gentlemen and the scheme of things as considered by that school did not necessarily include "emancipated" females. Yet, in the course of his work as a doctor of divinity and a moderator of the Presbyterian assembly, he became closely associated with and found a warm friend in Elizabeth B. Grannis. She had fought he own battles for years and was, when the two first became acquainted, editor of the Church Union and a staunch defender of the idea that the two sexes should enjoy absolute equality of rights.

E. B. Grannis, as she signed her name, was founder of the National Christian League for Promotion of Purity and has been its president for the past twenty.

Mrs. Grannis, speaking of the traits of Governor Wilson, said:

From the time he was big enough to irot alone, he was at his father's heels, morning noon and night. In the old days at Staunton, Va. later at Augusta, Ga., and the other southern homes of the Wilsons. Woodrow was the only member of the family never barred from the doctor's study. Never one of his baby questions went unanswered. Never a chance was missed to plant some bit of information, no matter what trains of thought were wrecked in his father's mind by the interruption.

what trains of thought were wrecked in his father's mind by the interruption.

Woodrow Wilson inherits just as much of his strong mentality from his gentle English mother as he does from the Wilson side of the family. His mother represented the training which is the British ideal of wife and motherhood. She was the sort of wife who studies every hour of the day how to add to her huxband's comfort and efficiency. She smitcipated his every wish, obtruding her own personality as little as possible. Her brother was Dr. James Woodrow, president of Columbia college at Columbia, S. C. and her education, like his, was of the highest, It is surely from Woodrow's mother quite as much as from his father that he inherita his calm instinct for assimilating tangled questions and passing wisely on them after muture deliberation.

Forecast of Success.

I know his heredity, his education and his environment from babyhood, and he will make the strongest, most indictions president since Lincoln.

One of the greatest blessings that has yet descended upon the woman question is the fact that Weedrow Wilson never had a son. With three daughters whom he devotedly loves, he cannot (with his logical mind) fail to study the problem of woman's full freedom and equality with man in church and state. He must necessically armic to-study the problem of woman's full freedom and equality with man in church and state. He must necessically armic to-study the problem of woman's full freedom and equality with man in church and state. He must necessically armic to-study the problem of woman's full freedom and equality with man in church and state. He must necessarily see the injustice is put upon his own, a man sees it more clearly than when it is put upon his sheen taught to love his neighbor as thimself.

The men of the nation may well rejoice in their new president, and the women of the whole land should give them, but also for the fact that his pearest and dearest are all women.

Much of Woodrow Wilson's early life was a direct response to prayer.

Crevasse Widening.

GREENVILLE, Miss., Jan. 26.—The crevasse in the Beulah leves had attained a width of 125 feet tonight and was widening slowly, while the flood pouring through the gap was six feet in depth. Natural hollows are being filled and no damage of consequence has resulted to date.

The break is more serious since it occurred early in the high water season. Efforts will be made to the the ends of the gap.

Heavy Rains Continue.

VICKSBURG Miss. Jan 26.—Heavy rains continued today in the lower Mississippi valley and federal and state engineers have redoubled their efforts to repair and strengthen the levees along the river. Major J. A. Woodruff, in charge of the third federal levee district, said tonight that prospects of tieing the ends of the Betilah crevasse are favorable, and by tomorrow, he said, he hoped to have the Fitler's levee in shape to withstand a further rise in the river.

Widespread Damage.

CAIRO, Ill., Jan. 26.—The Ohlo river remained stationary here tonight, but reports of widespread dumage both north and south of Cairo were received here. The Cotton Belt railway was forced to suspend traffic between Birds Point and Maiden. At Henderson Mounds, Mo., the track was covered by between two and three feet of water.

WOOLGROWERS WILL

WASHINGTON. Jan. 26.—The tariff hearings, covering the fourteen schedules of the present law along with the free list and miscellaneous articles and general administrative provisions will come to a close with the end of this week. The wool schedule, perhaps the most formidable of sil from the tariff makers standpoint, will be taken up tomorrow with prospects for a lively session and plenty of arguments from woolgrowers, manufacturers, importers and clothlers.

The National Association of Growers and Manufacturers are expected to appear in force to fight for retention of the present tariff.

The importance of the schedule is shown by the average of 89 per cent ad valorem as a barrier for protection of the big woolen industry of this country. The imports under the schedule last year produced 9 per cent of the total government revenue, covering the importation of more than $48,000,000.

Representative Underwood, chairman of the ways and means committee, frequently has voiced to witnesses the committee's policy regarding the tariff.

"We cannot,' he says, "consent and allow taxes to be so high that they prohibit importation, where the taxes will go to the manufacturers and none into the government's pockets. We are not complaining against taxes where there is reasonable amount of importation, but we are protesting against those taxes where they are prohibitive and where, therefore, practically nothing comes in. If we puil down the prohibitive wall so that there is some competition and the government gets some benefit the people will be benefited by the gathering of these taxes for public improvements, military maintenance and the courts. There is no intention of reducing the tariff along competitive lines so low as to disturb business prosperity. This is the general position of the Democratic majority of the committee that will set about the first week of February, the framing of the entire new tariff law, in a tentative way, for the incoming congress."

SELAY OF PAUL

MINISTER IN FAVOR OF DEATH PENALTY

What this country needs s a change. The criminal element, for such there is, needs to understand that here is a country and a government that will inflict the extreme penalty, not arbitrarily, but secause of the fundamental moral basis. When a criminal realizes that the taking of life is going to receive unick and speedy punishment by death, life here will then become so sacred that men will hesitate before taking it, and we will have come nearer the basis that prevails in other countries.

Divorce an Example.

If deserved purishment is not speedy, the hearts of men become emboldened to do evil. This is demonstrated in our marriage laws. If one doesn't like married life, it is said, "Oh, it's all right: I can get out of it through the divorce courts." I tell you that when a murderer is merely sentenced to life imprisonment, the story of history proves it will have the effect of producing an immediate increase in the epidemic of murder. Our first thought should not go out in sentiment toward the murderer and the criminal, but te the manly, the womanly, the pure and innocent. If anything in the world is muchish, sentiment is the greatest of all.

BUREAU TO REPORT GOVERNMENT TO PAY BY NEXT DECEMBER

Exhaustive Inquiry Into the System Goes Into Effect Fell Social Evil in New York Has Been Completed.

NEW YORK. Jan 25—The elaborate investigation of the social evil in New York, undertaken two years ago by the Bureau of Social Hygiene, is nearly completed and its results will be announced next December, according to a statement issued tonight by John D. Rockefeller, Jr. Mr. Rockefeller says also that an exhaustive inquiry of conditions in European cities has been made and that the bureau plans to extend its work to other American cities.

A corps of workers, under direction of George J. Kneeland, who directed the Chicago vice commission investigation, the announcement states, has made a survey of conditions in disorderly resorts, hotels, salooms, cafes, massage parlors and other places in New York where vicious persons congregate. In addition it has obtained the personal histories of some two thousand women of the underworld.

"Besed upon all these studies." Mr. Rockefeller adds. "it is the hope of the bureau that there may be devised a practical plan for dealing with the social evil in New York city—a pian which public opinion can be brought to support."

The bureau came into existence two years ago as a result of the work of the special grand jury of which Mr. Rockefeller was foreman, appointed to investigate the white slave trade in this city.

REVERE RIDERS

Suffragettes Plan to Wake Up the Women Between New York and Washington

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—A feminine Paul Revere riding from suffrage pillar to post on the road from New York to Washington will be a feature of the big suffrage parade in Washington on March 5. Mas Inez Miholland, who is contesting with Miss Gladys Hinckley the title of America's most beautiful suffragist, will probably be one of the relay of fair riders who will deplet this character in "every hamlet, village and town" between New York and Washington.

The motive of this modern Paul Revere rider is to arouse the dormant American woman to a realization of the importance of this crusade. The Paul Revere ride would be quite apart from General Rosalie's "army of hikers," which might be called the minute men of suffrage out on the skirmish lines.

After the arrival of the final relay rider in Washington she will appear in the parade clad in a revised colonial costums and carry a lantern. By International News Service.
